"Fantastic" BBC

Theatre Without Walls create content and formats for independent producers, major broadcasters & corporate clients. We work with production companies & freelancers at every level of the industry so we can provide viable options for most budgets. We also run film & audio education & community projects where people create their own productions.

Script Services

We offer script services at every stage in the development process from research through to project completion. We can run a whole project or a particular element of a larger production. Theatre Without Walls understand the needs of film production companies and can deliver professional solutions on time and on budget. Scripting for independent films, commercials, voiceovers, onscreen dialogue, product description, training videos, corporate presentations and interactive media.

Interactive Content

We create cross platform interactive content suitable for most delivery systems including traditional broadcast, mobile telephones, websites, ipod / personal media players, CD-ROMs, DVDs etc. Be it an illustrative sketch, issue based content, a comic training video or a fully interactive script we can work to your specification. We can create short films and audio clips, which can be embedded in websites and power point presentations.

Commercials and Corporate Videos

Otherwise excellent productions are often let down by bad scripts or a dull voiceover. We can add that extra 'oomph' to make people sit up and take notice of the message you are trying to get across. Training videos and corporate presentations should always be engaging, enjoyable and effective! We are happy to work with production companies and add creative value to your work. We also engage expert freelancers and consultants on a project by project basis to meet our clients exact needs and budget.

Film Education / Training

Theatre Without Walls run courses and projects for adults and children. We have developed workshops for broadcasters including the BBC and ITV and regularly run short projects where communities make their own films telling their own stories. We also run projects for museums, art galleries, heritage organisations, charities and schools.
